3.4.1 Outcome of Extension activities are carried out in the neighbourhood community, sensitizing students to social issues, for their holistic development, and impact thereof during the year 2023-24.

To raise students' awareness of the needs of the community, the institute hosts a number of outreach events that foster a sense of connection between the neighborhood and the institute. Our institute's students actively engage in social service projects that foster their emotional and social quotients and ultimately contribute to their entire growth.

The institute engages in a range of outreach initiatives within the local community. Through courses and events, DLLE volunteers address societal issues such as cleanliness, environmental awareness, women's empowerment, and national integrity events and programmes.

Higher education institutions have a big impact on their students' academic and professional destinies as well as their development into responsible, kind, and socially concerned people. One method to do this is to make a commitment to outreach and community involvement programs. In addition to benefiting the neighborhood, these programs offer students the opportunity to obtain real-world experience and cultivate a profound comprehension of the issues and requirements within their community.

One of our institute's most established and fruitful extension programs is "Magn." Students, professors, and staff are invited to collaborate on a variety of community service initiatives through this program. Event includes blood donation drive, cleaning up public spaces, and organizing educational activities. Pupils who actively engage in these activities develop a sense of responsibility for others who are less fortunate and recognize the importance of giving back to the community.

Furthermore, the institute's ties to the neighborhood have become stronger over time. Since the residents see our institution as a partner in their own development, the relationship between it and the neighborhood has improved and become more peaceful.

To sum up, our institute's commitment to organizing outreach programs to increase students' understanding of community needs demonstrates our belief in the transformative power of education. Both the neighborhood community and our students' growth into kind, responsible individuals who actively seek to better society benefit from these programs. In addition to academic excellence, we ensure that our graduates will have a strong sense of social responsibility by building a tight relationship between the school and the community.
