3.4.1 Outcome of Extension activities are carried out in the neighbourhood community, sensitizing students to social issues, for their holistic development, and impact thereof during the last five years.

The institute organizes several extension activities promoting the institute-neighbourhood community to sensitize the students towards community needs. The students of our institute actively participate in social service activities leading to nurturing social as well as emotional quotients eventually resulting in their overall development.

The institute undertakes various extension activities in the neighbourhood community. DLLE organizes several activities where DLLE volunteers address social issues which include cleanliness, tree plantation, Environmental awareness, Women empowerment, National Integrity, Career guidance, Aids awareness through workshops.

In addition to moulding their students' academic and professional futures, higher education institutions play a significant role in helping them become responsible, compassionate, and socially conscious adults. Committing to community involvement and outreach initiatives is one way to achieve this. These programs not only help the neighbourhood, but they also give students a chance to gain practical experience and develop a deep understanding of the problems and needs in their community.

The establishment of a solid interaction between the student body and the surrounding community is highly valued by our institute. To that end, we have launched several extension programs designed to make our students aware of and motivated to engage with community issues.

"Magn" is one of our institute's longest-running and most successful extension initiatives. This program invites faculty, staff, and students to work together on a range of community service projects. Among these initiatives are the clean-up of public areas, health and hygiene seminars, and the planning of educational events for less fortunate children. Students who actively participate in these activities understand the value of giving back to the community and acquire a feeling of responsibility for others who are less fortunate.

In addition to Community Service Day, our institute encourages students to volunteer their time and abilities throughout the year. We have partnered with neighbourhood non-profits and educational institutions to give students the chance to teach, mentor, and guide.

Aside from these activities, our institute encourages students to organise their own community-focused projects and events. This empowers students to take responsibility of their participation in solving community problems. These student-led activities vary from organising health camps to skill development seminars to social awareness campaigns.

Additionally, the institute's relationship with the local community has become stronger with time. There is now a more beneficial and harmonious relationship between our institution and the neighbourhood since the locals view it as a partner in their own growth and development.

In conclusion, our institute's dedication to planning outreach initiatives to raise students' awareness of community needs is evidence of our faith in the transformational potential of education. These initiatives help the neighbourhood community as well as our students' development into compassionate, responsible adults who actively work to improve society. By establishing a close relationship between the school and the community, we guarantee that our graduates will possess a strong sense of social responsibility in addition to academic brilliance.
